Uncle Hugh Forgey assumed the responsibility a few weeks ago to discontinue his Banner, remarking that if his folks really couldn't do without it, as they had intimated, they might come in and subscribe for it themselves. And sure enough, now comes Mrs. Elizabeth Forgey, Hugh's "better half," and asks to have the Banner sent to her address. Mrs. Forgey is quite intelligent and fond of reading, and while she lives the Banner will wave over the Forgey mansion.

A Rather Mixed Case.

John Taylor, who lived between Brownstown and Freetown, lately concluded to emigrate to Kansas. So he, with his family, goods and chattels, pulled up stakes and came here and chartered a through car. After the arrival of the goods Messrs. Forgey and Spray came over and had an attachment issued against the goods and stopped them. Silas Taylor then came to the front, claiming the goods as his, saying he had purchased them in good faith. This version of the story being given the attachment was withdrawn, and Forgey and Spray had Constable White levy upon the goods to satisfy claims which they held. Silas Taylor, still insisting that the goods were his, brought a replevin suit against Constable White. The case was tried before Esquire Reeves Friday, and after hearing all the evidence he returned the goods to White, claiming that he believed there was more or less fraud in the pretended original sale. Notice was given that an appeal would be taken. It is said to be a case of considerable importance.

Death of a Well-Known Citizen.

The death of Hugh A. Forgey, an old and estimable citizen of this township, has occasioned profound sorrow. Mr. Forgey had been in ill health for some time, and in hopes of deriving benefit went to Hot Springs, Arkansas, about one month ago. The change did him no good, and his affliction increased in severity until Wednesday of last week, when he breathed his last. His remains were brought home for interment.

Mr. Forgey was a man of strict integrity and a good and useful citizen. He leaves a wife and several children. His age was about 67 years.

OBITUARY. Died Feb. 7, 1908

After a long siege of sickness and suffering with that dread disease, consumption, death came to relieve Isis Forgey of the trials of this life. Her demise occurred last Friday night, Feb. 7th. Isis Forgey was the daughter of Richard W. and Mary A. Brownink, and was born Nov. 27, 1869. She was united in marriage to William Forgey June 23, 1890. To this union were born six children, one of whom preceded her to the grave. She united with the Methodist church when thirteen years of age and lived a christian life until death. She was a devoted wife, a kind and loving mother, and a friend to all she met. Her funeral was held in the M. E. church last Sunday at 11 o'clock, Rev. Machlan officiating. No better evidence of the purity of her soul could be produced than a very touching letter she wrote November 25, 1907, in which she expressed her implicit faith in Christ and wished to meet all her relatives and friends on the banks of the New Jerusalem and clasp the hand of everyone who is near and dear to her in this world; she wrote tenderly of the future life of her husband and children asking her friends to speak kind and cheering words to them and put out a hand to check them should they drift away and forget their mothers' advice and teaching. In this letter she also minutely made known all her desires as to her funeral arrangements, which were carried out so far as possible.

GEORGE—Mrs. Sarah E. George, wife of D. H. George, of Crothersville, died April 21, 1910, in the St. Joseph hospital in Louisville, where she had undergone a surgical operation. She was born at Freetown, Ind., October 9, 1853, making her age 56 years, 6 months and 12 days. Her maiden name was Forgey, and she was united in marriage to D. H. George in 1877. For a number of years they resided at Clearspring, moving from thence to Waymansville, thence to Crothersville. She leaves to mourn her death her husband, four sons and one daughter, viz: Eugene and Finley, both of whom live in Terre Haute; Hugh, of Norfolk, Va.; Harry, who lived at home, and Mrs. Nora Fountain, of Browstown. She also leaves two brothers at Freetown and two sisters in the west, besides a host of friends, for to know her was to love her. She was a kind and loving companion, a devoted mother and a good neighbor.

She was a member of the Crothersville Baptist church, in which she was an earnest worker and was present at all the services unless prevented by sickness. At the age of twenty-six, while living at Clearspring, she professed faith in Christ and ever since lived a devoted christian life. She was also a member of the Eastern Star lodge of Crothersville, and although a member but a short time she loved the Order and its members.

Her aim in life was to be an example for her children, to lead the unconverted to Christ and to administer to the comfort of others; just before her death, and while in great suffering, she asked her husband to step into an adjoining room and see if he could not help a poor woman, who seemed to be in great pain.

In her death the husband and children have lost a devoted companion and loving mother, the church a perfect jewel, and the Eastern Star lodge an exemplary member.

The funeral services under the auspices of the Eastern Star were held at the Baptist church in Crothersville Sunday, April 24, at 1 o'clock p. m., Rev. J. S. Arvin officiating, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Crothersville cemetery.

Obituary.

The funeral of John Forgey, son of Leander Forgey and wife, was held at the U. B. church Monday at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. McCoy officiating.

Deceased was a son of Leander and Agnes Forgey; born May 24, 1890, and died October 5, 1918, aged 28 years, three months and 11 days. John was the fifth of eleven children, two of whom preceded him to the grave. One brother and one sister. Leaving a father, mother, four brothers, four sisters and a host of friends to mourn his death. John was stricken deaf at the age of nine years. He started to school one year later at "The Institution for the Deaf," at Indianapolis, where he proved himself a very able scholar. He learned the printers trade, while at school and worked at it at Shelbyville and Indianapolis for about two and one-half years. In the spring of 1912 he went west where he has spent the last six years of his life.

In the winter of 1918 while at Cascade Idaho, he contracted the dread disease, tuberculosis. He returned home July 15, where he has lingered under the care of devoted parents, brothers, sisters and friends until death.

The relatives have the deep sympathy of our community in their sorrow.

Obituary.

Mary Ann (Callahan) Browning, daughter of Jesse and Eva Callahan, was born near Kurtz, Ind., Feb. 17, 1830, and departed this life Dec. 19, 1919, aged 89 years, 10 months and two days.

She was united in marriage May 27, 1855, to Richard W. Browning, who preceded her to the great beyond Dec. 4, 1901. To this union were born five children, Mrs. Jane Weaver, Jesse, James, Mrs. Adeline Cummings, with whom she resided, and Mrs. Isis Forgey, of whom only Jas. and Adeline remain to mourn the loss; also eleven grandchildren, thirty-seven great grandchildren and one great-great-grand child, and two step sons, William and John.

She affiliated with the M. E. church when young and became a charter member of her mother church at Kurtz, when it was organized.

She repeated during her illness that all she regretted to depart this life was to leave her folks, especially the daughter with whom she made her home, who was so loving and kind to her during her long illness.

The Seymour company contended that their increased rates were justified by the fact that while the city patrons had the privilege of talking with 750 patrons through the connection of mutual lines, on the other hand the farmers had connection with almost 3000 phones by means of the Seymour exchange and other systems connected with it. The company also contended that the farmers rates were less in proportion than that paid by city patrons.

Among those who testified for the farmers lines were John Q. and Ollie Foster, of Vernon township, Cline Forgey, of Freetown, and O. V. Starr owner of the Medora system.

DISAPPEARED 14 YEARS AGO

(From Surprise Items)

The strange and mysterious disappearance of Henry Runge, a farmer of Hamilton township, twelve or fourteen years ago, was recalled last week in the Surprise neighborhood by the rumor that a woman from the Forgey neighborhood had said that the body of Henry Runge could be found in an old abandoned stock well in the hills west of Surprise.

A number of men from the Surprise neighborhood went to the designated spot to make an investigation. All the water was removed from the well and a careful search in the mud bottom was made, but no trace of the remains could be found and Henry Runge's sudden disappearance still remains among the unsolved mysteries.

At that time Mr. Runge was a well-known young farmer of that locality, about 30 years of age. He owned a small farm about 40 acres, but after losing one of his arms in a corn shredder he sold his farm. At the time of his disappearance it is thought that he had between $300 and $400 on his person, part of the proceeds of the sale of his farm.

The last seen or heard of him was in the hills west of Surprise.

When he did not return home at his usual time a general search was made and his relatives offered a reward for any information concerning his whereabouts, but no trace of him was ever found and it is generally believed that he met with foul play.

Many conflicting reports followed his mysterious disappearance from time to time, one of which was that he had been robbed and murdered and his body burned on a brush pile.

His relatives and friends followed every clue, but nothing definite could be learned that would help solve the mystery.

He was a brother of Fred and Henry Runge of Hamilton township.

Obituary

William W. Forgey, youngest son of Hugh and Elizabeth (Wray) Forgey, was born near Freetown, Indiana, May 18th, 1862, and departed this life December 20th, 1933, having attained the age of 71 years, 7 months, and 2 days.

On June 22, 1890, he was united in marriage to Isis Browning, who preceded him to the great beyond Feb. 7, 1904. To this union were born six children, Mrs. Inez B. McIntyre of Seymour, Cecil Claire, and Mrs. Rose Edna Denny of Freetown, Charles Lynn of Glendale, California, Claude A. of Detroit, Michigan, and Nona Marie, who passed away July 29, 1905.

On April 26, 1916, he was united in marriage to Mrs. Alice (Taylor) Winkler, who has been his helpmate until his death.

During a series of services in 1915 he united with the Christian church at Freetown and endeavored to exemplify the life of the Savior in his daily life.

Funeral services in charge of the Rev. Buchanan were conducted at the Christian church Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Burial in the Freetown cemetery.

PLEASANT GROVE.

It is with the deepest of regret we note Mrs. Robert McMillan's sudden death last Friday the 19th instant after illness of a few days from a paralytic stroke of great force. She was a model woman who was held in highest esteem by all who knew her and an upright member of the Christian church. Interment took place at the Freetown cemetery last Saturday morning.

Mrs. Elizabeth McMillan, whose illness, resulting from a paralytic stroke we mentioned last week, was removed to her home, Thursday and died Friday. She was unconscious the greater part of the time from the time she received the stroke until death released her from her pain. Her remains were interred in the new cemetery here Saturday, by the side of her first husband, Hugh Forgey. She leaves a husband, two sons and a daughter, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. In her death our community has lost one of its esteemed citizens, and her loss will be keenly felt.
